Proposal

For our objects story we wanted to focus more on the relationship between the controller and the person (Justin), rather than giving the controller a voice itself.

- We decided to base our story off of the movie "Like Mike"
- In this movie, the main character wears Jordan's and then becomes a pro at basketball, never missing a shot.
- In our version, Justin is in a fierce gaming competition where he's struggling to keep up with his competitors. Suddenly Justin's controller begins controlling itself and helps navigate him through the round and to victory.
- Together, Justin and his controller become an unstoppable force, dominating every gaming competition they attend.
- In the next step of our project we plan to create a graphic novel using tools such as Adobe firefly, chat gpt (if necessary), and a similar setup of the former Spring 2022 project "Distant Love"
